CLEANED UP A STATE.

How. Dr. Oscar Dowling Did It to Louisiana.

In the October American Magazine appears an article about Dr. Oscar Dowling, president of the Louisiana state board of health, who has done a great work. Dr. Dowling's first public statement was characteristic: "Dirt! That's what the matter with Louisiana; and we are now going to start in and have a thorough house-cleaning."

The article then goes: "The result was the famous Louisiana health special, 'the gospel of health on wheels.' It consisted of three cars, two cars of exhibits and a living car for the health officers."

"Dr. Dowling and his corps of lecturers and assistants lived on that train for seven months. In that time they combed Louisiana with a fine comb. Every city, town or village—250 in all—of more than 250 inhabitants was visited, inspected and lectured. Where the railroads didn't run Dowling went in motor cars or carriages. On the narrow gauge tracks he mounted a railway hand car and pumped himself over the line. Where other methods of transportation failed he walked; in the bayou parishes launches and rowboats were called into service."

"Dowling's way of dealing with conditions as he found them was something of a shock. After spending a day in inspecting a town he would stand up at a meeting of citizens in the evening and say: 'You have a very dirty town here. Parts of it are awful. Your schoolhouse isn't fit for anything but a barn, your dairies are impossible, and if your butchers don't clean up and keep cleaned up, I will have to put them out of business.' They took it hard at first. When they became better acquainted with the doctor they began to fall into his way of thinking. Cleaning-up days became the rage all over the state."

"He is still up to his elbows in the fight for a cleaner Louisiana. There is nothing fanciful about his rolled-up sleeves. Recently he asked the owner of a well-known New Orleans restaurant if he did not wish to keep a clean place. 'Why, doctor?' was the astounded reply. 'I have it cleaned up every night.' 'Then you don't know how to clean,' said Dowling."

"Well, I can only afford to pay my scrub people a dollar and a half a night," protested the man.

"All right," said Dr. Dowling. "Hire me for one night and I'll show you how to clean up."

"The newspapers next morning ran flashlight photographs of the doctor in action. The president of the state board of health with his sleeves rolled up, his collar off, and a scrub brush in his hand, cleaning up the kitchen of a restaurant, was something of a novelty."

"Dr. Dowling is a big man, big of body, brain, and heart. He loves children and hates anything that hurts them. He has sent the common drinking cup, the public roller towel, and similar means of spreading disease flying out of his state. His crusade for safe-guarding the health of children is one of the stirring features of his remarkable campaign."

"Louisiana's feeling toward its aggressive health chief, now that it has accepted the gospel of better health, may be summed up in the words of a converted country editor: 'Get us cleaned up, dear doc, and we will rise up and call you blessed!'"

Royal Arcanum, Members Green Mountain council, No. 736, are notified that there will be no meeting until further notice in this paper. I. E. Springer, regent. Attest: Herbert A. Rugg, secretary.

POLISHING MACHINE IMPROVED.

Is Being Tried Out Successfully at Adie & Milne's.

An improvement in the method of running the "Jenny Lind" type of polishing machine has just been successfully tried out, and is now in operation at the granite plant of Adie & Milne on Circle street.

Instead of the machine being driven by power from the main motor, an 8½ h. p. motor is bolted upon the rear vertical shaft and supplies the driving power, while another one h. p. motor, resting upon the back arm, is used for raising and lowering the wheel.

The advantages claimed for this method are that it does away with two belts, also the pulleys and overhead gearing. This, with the rear shaft being stationary, causes a noticeable saving of power. The controlling ropes for shifting belts and the hand hoisting gear are eliminated, and the polisher has easier and fuller control of his machine, as all the switches for operating are placed at the end of the arm, thus being right at hand at whatever part of the bed he may be working.

Again, this method takes a good-sized load off the main motor, which in many cases is so overtaxed as to impair its efficiency. The improvement has been worked out by Charles S. Cushman and James S. Milne of the firm of Adie & Milne.

We hope to be able this week to offer you some
